A one-day ESCalate Workshop

This event is designed for new ITE lecturers who are in their first three years in post at a Higher Education Institution.

The workshop will focus on raising awareness of your professional learning and development in relation to your teaching in Higher Education, your emerging scholarly and research activities, and your roles and responsibilities in relation to your partner schools. It aims to provide a supportive environment for gaining more understanding about factors that impinge on professional learning in the new setting and for sharing, and listening to, a variety of others experiences as new teacher educators.

The workshop will support the ESCalate guidelines for the induction of new teacher educators (Boyd, Harris and Murray, 2007) which are available at <http://escalate.ac.uk/3662> and with recent research on the identity, pedagogy and scholarship of lecturers in teacher education.

Team of presenters:

Professor Jean Murray, UEL
Dr Pete Boyd, University of Cumbria
Kim Harris, University of Cumbria
