Aims of the Conference

Building on our five ITE conferences presented for ESCalate, we present your first Teacher Education Advancement Network conference. We recognise the ongoing need for a dedicated forum for Teacher Education research and scholarly activity and will showcase contributions from colleagues from all four countries of the UK. We are very pleased to announce that Anthony Finn, Chief Executive of the General Teaching Council of Scotland will open the conference.

We are delighted to welcome Professor John Gardner to give the keynote address to open our teacher education conference. John is Professor of Education in the School of Education at Queen's University, Belfast. He has been engaged in educational research and teacher education for over 20 years and is author or co-author of five books and over 100 journal articles. He will address delegates on the theme of our conference: 'The Importance of Education'. This all-embracing title is deliberately chosen to inspire us to consider the value of what we offer through our work. Particularly important as always is impact on practice, and in our conference we hope to encourage delegates to take away good ideas to use in their institutions.

Glasgow Caledonian University is conveniently located in the centre of the city, with easy access by air, rail and road from anywhere in the country. The campus is modern and accessible and offers excellent conference facilities as well as being just minutes away from shops, restaurants, cinemas and theatres in the city.

We look forward to welcoming you in May to your 1st TEAN conference.

Who is it for?

The conference is aimed at all practitioners working in teacher education from the four countries of the UK and all other agencies with a professional interest in teacher education. It could well also resonate with colleagues from the international scene. Our focus is on schools, however, transferable knowledge from other sectors is also welcomed in the conference.
